

Stockton & Partners, Inc. is a full service event planning, meeting management, and destination management company based in Philadelphia. We've cultivated industry expertise through more than 20 years of experience producing savvy, successful events and meetings for corporate and nonprofit clients across various industries.

"We put a lot of trust in Kate and her team to make all of our sales meetings and client events 'something to talk about.' Their creativity and ability to deliver events that run flawlessly keep us coming back year after year."

- Steve Valeri, Vice President of Marketing, Broder Bros., Co.

Core Services

- > Event Planning. Our team offers a full suite of services that takes the guesswork out of crafting and delivering meaningful corporate events, providing a thoughtful approach to each project. From venue scouting and program design to entertainment and municipal permits, we get right down to the nitty gritty and never miss a beat.
- > Meeting Management. A group is only as strong as its individual members. With this as our mantra, we take great care to ensure our work planning meetings serves to unite and inspire all attendees. We are guided by the goals and outcomes our clients aim to reach and, at the end of the day, these are the most important success metrics.
- > Destination Management. We know places. And, after working with our team, so will you and your guests. In addition to polishing the finer details to a high shine, we go the extra mile to make sure your event is a blast from the time guests step off the plane until they hit the tarmac to go back home. From recommending the trendiest hotels and culinary hotspots, to planning an itinerary of high-octane activities and cultural site visits, we ensure that your events are fully immersive for your guests.

Why Choose Stockton & Partners

- > We know our stuff. Our collective expertise and industry knowledge are wide-ranging. Whether it's A/V, Security, Transportation, or even Content Creation, Stockton & Partners can see you through every step of planning and executing an unforgettable event.
- > We become a part of the team. While many event planners prefer to act as an "extra arm," only carrying out orders as needed, we push ourselves to always go above and beyond. That means truly taking a seat at your table and putting some skin in the game. At Stockton & Partners, we pride ourselves on playing a collaborative and conceptual role in making your event a success. We'll help you realize your business goals.
- > We create experiences. Stockton & Partners understands that standard meetings and events are a dime a dozen.

 That's why we're in the business of envisioning and delivering corporate experiences that go beyond the ordinary. We work to thoroughly engage visitors—visually, digitally and intellectually—to create unforgettable experiences that immerse your guests in the ethos of your business. We imbue our events with the essence of your brand and its goals so that attendees never question your unique value.

Kate is a natural leader whose eye for detail and technical savvy are born of an unparalleled work ethic and sense of personal commitment. She has a hard won reputation as one of the region's most experienced event and meeting planners, and—as her impressive portfolio clearly shows—her work consistently shines.
